Merry Christmas

Dear Friends and Partners,

As this year comes to an end, I would be amiss if I neglected to share more of God's faithfulness and His sustaining grace in this ministry.

There have been many times I've contemplated shutting down this ministry and calling it a day out of sheer discouragement. But, here are a few of the reasons why I could never allow myself to follow through with it – unless God gave me the peace to do so:

- Babies are being killed daily on thousands of campuses through abortions.
- The sin of abortion is running rampant in the homes of pastors and church leaders.

- Babies are dying in childbirth due to the neglect of untrained midwives in many impoverished countries.
- Discussion of purity and the sanctity of life is almost nonexistent on the continent of Africa.

So, how could I know what I know, see what I've seen, do what I've done ... and walk away?

All of this is an attempt to say "thank you" for your many hours of prayer. They have sustained and strengthened me.

Despite all the financial difficulties during COVID-19, Julie's Heart Cry donors continued to give sacrificially. God's grace and their obedience to the leading of the Holy Spirit brought in $700,000 (earmarked) by the end of September. For those of you who have had experience with fundraising, you know that only God could make this happen for such a young ministry as this one.

I do not take your love or your trust lightly.

As you read this newsletter, my husband, Cyrus, and I will be in the Central African Republic. We are looking forward to doing life with our relatives and church family instead of staying in a hotel during our three weeks in CAR.

We desire to have a front-row seat in their everyday lives and them in ours as we sit around the fire at night sharing and listening generously.

Please keep Cyrus and me in your prayers as we have multiple speaking opportunities during this trip. A couple of things we would like to tackle are the effects of tribalism within the body of Christ and what God thinks about abortion.

Finally, as much as JHC is a humanitarian organization, our aim is the transformation of minds and hearts, not to stop people from sinning. In the words of Cyrus: When God sets up housekeeping, lives will begin to change. So, pray with us those hearts will be ready to receive with meekness the engrafted Word, which is able to save their souls.

Merry Christmas to you and your family!
